Recommenders

The candidate must provide the names of three recommenders. The admissions committee will refer to these recommenders for evaluation purposes; it is highly recommended to affirm their willingness to serve as recommenders in advance. Priority will be given to recommendations from active researchers who hold positions as University faculty members. In cases where the student has completed a master's thesis, it is mandatory to include the supervisor as one of the recommenders.

Name	Institution / University	Recommender's relationship with me	Email	Phone

I hereby confirm that the following points have been brought to my attention:

1. Admission to the doctoral program is contingent upon various factors, which encompass achievements, recommendations, the number of candidates, the opinion of the supervisor, and compatibility with the research fields.
2. The availability of a subsistence scholarship cannot be guaranteed and is subject to the university's budget, the stage of the student's studies, the pace of their progress, and the availability of research grants for their supervisor.
3. Doctoral students are expected to actively engage with the faculty and participate in its activities, including departmental seminars.

Please attach these required documents to accompany your application form:

- Transcripts from previous studies (please ensure to include the source documents)
- GMAT test result
- Curriculum Vitae, providing comprehensive details of your research and teaching experience
- A one-page short essay reflecting on your motivations, goals, and the personal significance of pursuing a Ph.D.
- Two passport photos
- If you have applied for an exemption from the GMAT, it is necessary to include a letter that outlines the reasons for your request. (For example, if you possess a Quantitative GRE score of 165 or higher, hold a Ph.D., or achieved an average of 90 in both your Master's degree and thesis)

Additionally, feel free to include any supplementary information that you believe may assist the committee in their deliberations.

We wish you the utmost success with your application!
